Quick Facts:

- Event title: EUROSPINE Breakfast Symposium
- Location: Venice, Italy
- Date: 1 June 2019
- Organiser: Italian Society of Spine Surgery (GIS)
- Number of Participants: approx. 25
- EUROSPINE Representatives: Alessio Lovi, Andrea Luca and Marco Teli

The topic of the symposium, a parallel one-hour session during the GIS Annual Meeting 2019, was "Surgical - decision making in adolescence idiopathic scoliosis", a still very controversial subject.

Prof. Giuseppe Costanzo, current GIS president, took over the chairship of the symposium. Alessio Lovi, Andrea Luca and Marco Teli moderated the symposium. Furthermore, Marco Teli presented on the role of anterior fusion.

All presentations were of great quality and the discussion was very interactive. Particularly, a very interesting debate took place regarding the current view on LIV in anterior versus posterior fusion for AIS.

All the participants wish that the cooperation between GIS and EUROSPINE can continue in the future.
